

NDAA Legislative Analysis

*The National Defense Authorization Act
(NDAA)*

As of 28 March 2016

H.R. 4909

Overview

In the early morning hours of 28 May 2016, Congressman Mac Thornberry, Chairman of the House Armed Service Committee passed the House version of the NDAA by a 60-2 vote, which is now headed to the House floor for final passage before being sent to the Senate. The President's Budget (PB) request for Fiscal Year 2017 (FY17) included $582.7 billion for the base budget of the Department of Defense (DOD), and $58.8 billion for Overseas Contingency Operations (OCO). This is an increase of $2.2 billion above the President's budget request sent during the FY 16 negotiations.

Highlights of the house bill include an across the board pay raise of 2.1% for military personnel and $3 billion for 14 more F/A-18E/F aircraft for the Navy and a $2 billion plus-up to the Navy's shipbuilding budget.

There are a number of variations that we expect to see as we go into the Senate mark up of their version of the request, especially pertaining to OCO funding levels. These variations are likely to drag out into the conference negotiations before being sent to the President for his final approval. It is likely that a deal will be struck in an effort to appease the President, following his numerous veto threats. Most notably, advanced procurement funding levels for certain aircraft and ship platforms may be significantly lower than what both the House and the Senate agreed on, i.e. Litoral Combat Ships, Ohio Class Replacements, F-35's & F/A-18 E/F 'Super Hornets.'
